

Our grand daughter Payten (right) with friend Caitlyn during recent trip to New York City with Janet and me to celebrate Payten's eighth grade graduation.

Getting ready here to see Broadway play Mean Girls. A little less hectic evening for the grandparents when compared to Ariana Grande's concert the night before at Madison Square Garden. Had to endure more than 18,000 screaming teenage girls for over two hours. Talk about being fish out of water!

We also visited Madame Tussauds' Wax Museum where the girls met several celebrities including John Legend. Spent almost three hours touring the museum. If ever in the Big Apple well worth the time to visit.

Anxiously awaiting start of Ariana's Concert...
